

CLASSICAL ARTS ENTERTAINMENT PRESENTS

SWAN LAKE

While we are delighted to celebrate another exciting chapter for Classical Arts Entertainment, we are proud to announce our upcoming National Tour for the 2026–2027 season, bringing world-class ballet to audiences across the United States and Canada. We are deeply grateful to our audiences for their continued support and love throughout the years. Because of you, we can expand our reach and bring the beauty of classical ballet to new cities and communities each season.

Looking ahead, we are also excited to share that a new production of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs is currently in development and planned for the 2027–2028 touring season. This vibrant and family-friendly ballet will feature new sets, costumes, and a fresh artistic vision, continuing our commitment to creating unforgettable theatrical experiences.

Our mission remains the same: to preserve the magic and majesty of the classical repertoire while showcasing the extraordinary talent of our international company of dancers. Bringing together artists from across Europe and beyond, we are proud to present performances that reflect both tradition and innovation.

Even during challenging times around the world, we continue to stand by our belief that the show must go on. Through passion, dedication, and artistry, our performers bring each production to life on stage, creating powerful and inspiring moments for audiences everywhere.

We look forward to welcoming you to the theater and sharing these unforgettable experiences with you and your loved ones.

Respectfully,

Classical Arts Entertainment, Inc

The Daily Texan:

"The magic of Swan Lake transcends generations."

"Odile perfectly executed the iconic 32 fouetté turns – one of the most anticipated and difficult scenes."

"Swan Lake continues to inspire dancers and patrons of the arts to appreciate a performance that never loses its sparkle."

With more than 10 years of experience presenting internationally acclaimed productions, Classical Arts Entertainment is proud to share this artistic journey with communities across North America.

Synopsis

Prologue

The wicked magician Rothbart has put a curse on the beautiful maiden Odette and her friends, turning the girls into swans during the day – they are only human at night. Only a boundless true love can release them from the curse.

Scene 1

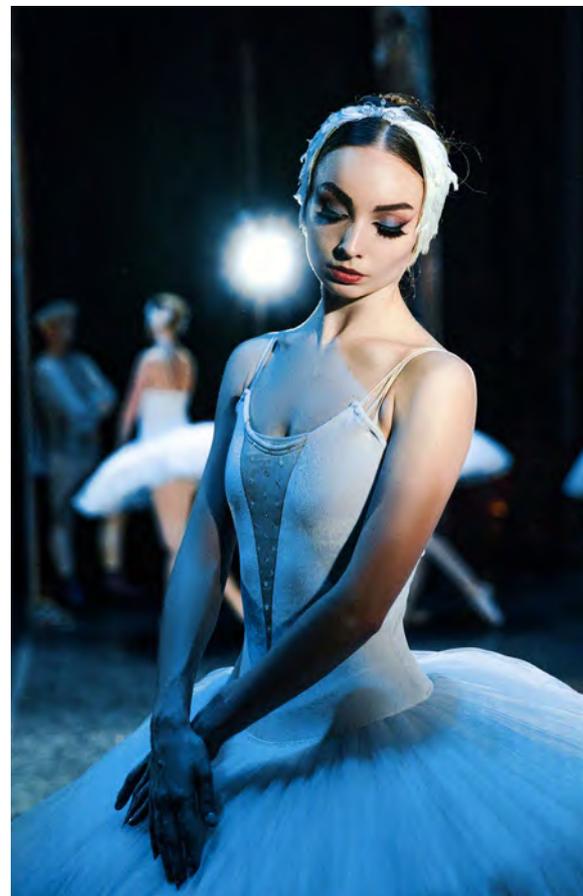

In the garden in front of the castle, Prince Siegfried celebrates his coming-of-age party. The guests, ladies-in-waiting, and the prince's best friend, Benno, all rejoice. A hilarious Jester entertains everyone by dancing.

The reigning Queen, the mother of the prince, informs everyone that during the next day's ball Siegfried must choose a fiancée. Prince Siegfried is disappointed as he has not met a girl who he could love. It is growing dark. The guests leave the garden. Alone, Siegfried sees a flock of white swans flying high in sky, spurring him to hunt. Taking a crossbow, the prince goes into the forest.

Scene 2

At the lakeside, Siegfried sees a white swan and draws his bow to shoot. Suddenly the swan transforms into Odette. Her beauty charms the Siegfried. Odette tells the prince of the curse. Siegfried professes his love and vows his devotion. The evil magician sees Odette and Siegfried together and decides to trick the prince into breaking his vows to Odette.

Act I

Act II

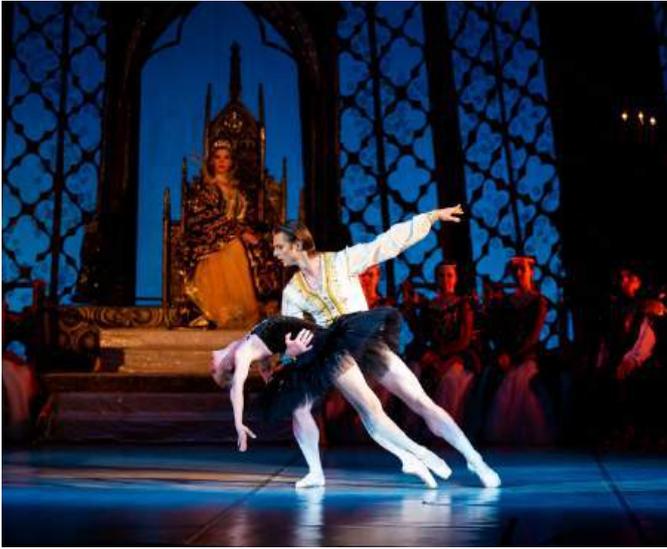

Scene 1

The ball has begun, but Siegfried is uninterested in any of the noblewomen dancing there. Baron von Rothbart and his daughter, Odile, arrive. Siegfried thinks Odile looks like Odette, but Benno does not agree. Siegfried asks Odile to dance and, enchanted by her, agrees to marry her. At that moment, Rothbart reveals himself as the evil magician, Odile laughs, and a white swan wearing a crown appears in the window. Siegfried runs out of the castle.

Scene 2

At the lakeside, Odette tells her friends about Siegfried's betrayal. Their hope to become free is lost forever. The curse of the evil magician has triumphed. The prince searches for Odette to beg for her forgiveness: he was convinced that Odile was actually Odette, and thought he was promising to marry her. Siegfried battles through a terrible storm Rothbart has created; and begins to fight him. Odette protects her beloved Prince from a deathblow, unwittingly breaking the curse with her love. The loving couple gladly meet the rays of the rising sun; Odette and her friends are human again.

Swan Lake Composer

Pyotr I. Tchaikovsky

(1840-1893)

Pyotr Il'yich Tchaikovsky was the author of some of the most popular themes in all of classical music. He founded no school, struck out no new paths or compositional methods, and sought few innovations in his works. Yet the power of his best music elevates it to classic status. It was Tchaikovsky's unique melodic charm that could, whether in his Piano Concerto No. 1 or in his ballet The Nutcracker or in his tragic last symphony, make the music sound familiar on first hearing.

Tchaikovsky was born into a family of five brothers and one sister. He began taking piano lessons at age four and showed remarkable talent, eventually surpassing his own teacher's abilities. By age nine, he exhibited severe nervous problems, not least because of his overly sensitive nature. The following year, he was sent to St. Petersburg to study at the School of Jurisprudence. The loss of his mother in 1854 dealt a crushing blow to the young Tchaikovsky. In 1859, he took a position in the Ministry of Justice, but longed for a career in music, attending concerts and operas at every opportunity. He finally began study in harmony with Zaremba in 1861, and enrolled at the St. Petersburg Conservatory the following year, eventually studying composition with Anton Rubinstein.

In 1866, the composer relocated to Moscow, accepting a professorship of harmony at the new conservatory, and shortly afterward turned out his First Symphony, suffering, however, a nervous breakdown during its composition. His opera The Voyevoda came in 1867-1868 and he began another, The Oprichnik, in 1870, completing it two years later.

In 1869 Tchaikovsky entered into a working relationship with composer Mily Balakirev, leader of The Five; the result was Tchaikovsky's first recognized masterpiece, the fantasy-overture Romeo and Juliet. Other works were appearing during this time, as well, including the First String Quartet (1871), the Second Symphony (1873), and the ballet Swan Lake (1875).

In 1876, Tchaikovsky traveled to Paris with his brother, Modest, and then visited Bayreuth, where he met Liszt. By 1877, Tchaikovsky was an established composer. This was the year of Swan Lake's premiere and the time he began work on the Fourth Symphony (1877-1878). The period of subsidy by Mme von Meck was abundantly productive for Tchaikovsky with a spate of outstanding compositions, including the Serenade for Strings (1881), 1812 Overture (1882), and the Fifth Symphony (1888). In both 1888 and 1889, Tchaikovsky went on European tours as a conductor, meeting Brahms, Grieg, Dvřak, Gounod, and other notable musical figures. Sleeping Beauty was premiered in 1890, and The Nutcracker in 1892, both with success.

Swan Lake was the first ballet of Pyotr Tchaikovsky?

Written in 1876, it's a kaleidoscope of melodies, dancing, and folklore motifs. This is one of the most frequently staged ballets worldwide and paved the way for the legendary The Nutcracker and Sleeping Beauty.

Swan Lake grew out of a home performance?

Tchaikovsky's family staged an amateur performance, with the composer himself directing and choreographing. This homegrown fairy tale about a swan evolved into the masterpiece we know today.

Did you know?

Swan Lake became iconic after Tchaikovsky's death?

In 1895, Marius Petipa's staging at St. Petersburg's Mariinsky Theater became canonical, marking the ascension of Russian ballet to global fame.

The Dance of the Little Swans is the most famous dance in the world?

Even if you've never seen Swan Lake, you've likely heard its music and seen excerpts of this iconic dance, a highlight of Russian ballet and a favorite for parodies.

Since 2019 until present time, United European Ballet Company has been working on engaging the studios all over the country with the We Dance Program.

The Program has grown into a 30+ Partner Studios that perform throughout the East Coast Tour every year. Classical Arts Entertainment casts student dancers ages 5-18 in ancillary roles performing alongside the professional ballet dancers. A wide variety of parts for young dancers is offered during the Grand National Tour 2026/2027, in such repertoire, as:

CAE's We Love to Dance Program Director and Producer, Michael Art, plays a central role in supporting and developing young dancers who share the stage with professional artists in productions including The Nutcracker, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, Cinderella, Sleeping Beauty, and Swan Lake.

Under his direction and creative leadership, We Love to Dance partner studios audition and rehearse thousands of local ballet students in tour cities each season. During the 2025 to 2026 Winter and Spring tours across the United States, more than 5000 students are expected to participate, gaining meaningful stage experience and professional-level preparation.

The We Love to Dance program is designed to prepare young performers for confident, high-quality appearances alongside an international company of professional ballet artists, offering practical production experience, artistic growth, and memorable opportunities on major theater stages.
